BIRMINGHAM: The National Front acknowledges that inner city boroughs do need to spend more money because their people need extra services.

A FAIR TAX - NOT A POLL TAX!

AS COUNCIL AFTER council across the land sets its Poll Tax, the lies on which this unfair extortion are based stand clear to see. The Government said the new tax would be a light burden - only an average of £278 per head. The truth is the average Poll Tax is over £361, nearly a third again higher.

The Government said the new tax would be fair. The truth is that under the new tax a little old lady living in a two-up-two-down tenement pays every penny as much as the multi-millionaire Duke of Westminster in his mansion - in fact whilst the old lady is worse off the Duke nets a cool £10,000 a year out of the change from rates to Poll Tax: no doubt he'll be voting Tory next time!

The Government said the new tax would penalise "high spending Labour boroughs". The truth is they simply squeezed their poll-taxpayers, so that in some parts of London people's Poll Tax varies by several hundred pounds a year depending what side of the street, the borough boundary, you live on.

The Government said the public would meekly accept it. The truth is that tens of thousands have taken to the streets to oppose the tax. Whilst fanatical Communist street-terror groups like Militant and the Socialist Workers Party have tried to cash in and exploit them for their own sinister ends, the truth is that most anti-poll-tax protesters are ordinary English and Welsh folk, many long-standing Tory voters.

The National Front says the Poll Tax is unfair and must go. The National Front says all taxes must be fair, individually - based on how much each taxed person can afford to pay. The rich can afford to pay a higher tax than the poor, and should be taxed accordingly.

Although they were not wholly fair either, the old rates did at least reflect the value of the taxed person's property, and so bore - usually at least - some relationship to their wealth. The Poll Tax charges pauper and tycoon exactly the same. Many poor people simply can't afford to pay it, as the Scots have already found.

The National Front also says all taxes must be fair collectively - people shouldn't be charged more just because they live in a deprived inner-city area which needs more spending on local services. Or less because, like the people of the Tory showpiece borough Wandsworth, their council fiddles its figures by exploiting rate support grants and setting an artificially low figure, which will shoot up next year, just to curry favour with the Tory bosses and score a party political point.

Of course some Labour boroughs - and Tory and Liberal ones - waste money on Blacks, queers and other crank and anti-British causes. But inner city boroughs do need to spend more money because their people are poor - why should that mean they have to charge those very poor people, least able to afford it, more? Why shouldn't wealthy rural areas share the burden of helping the less fortunate members of our national family?

In place of Thatcher's unjust poll tax the National Front would put a fair local income tax, based entirely on how much people can afford to pay. Our tax would be collected along with the existing income tax by the Inland Revenue. In effect, rates and Poll Tax would go, completely, replaced, if spending stayed at present levels, by about 11p in the pound on Income Tax.

Spending would drop, since the Council bureaucracy currently needed to collect the old rates and new Poll Tax could be abolished, saving millions. Once collected by the Inland Revenue, money for local spending would be granted by the Government to the local councils. The amount given to each council would reflect its needs - poor inner city boroughs would get more per head, rich rural ones less, on the whole.

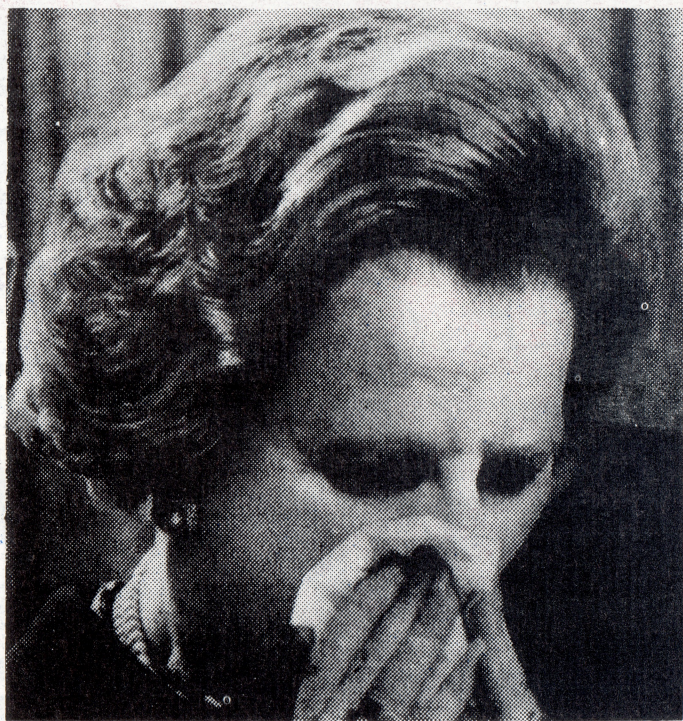

NEGOTIATIONS

Since councils would be unable to squeeze any more money out of their people they could not overspend or waste money. Of course, each council's annual grant would be settled by negotiations between itself and the central government so this would not arise.

The NF's Local Income Tax would be fair - both individually and collectively. And it would be simpler to collect than the existing bureaucratic tangle - everyone would pay only one single direct tax, based simply on how much they earn, and, usually, collected as they earn it via PAYE.

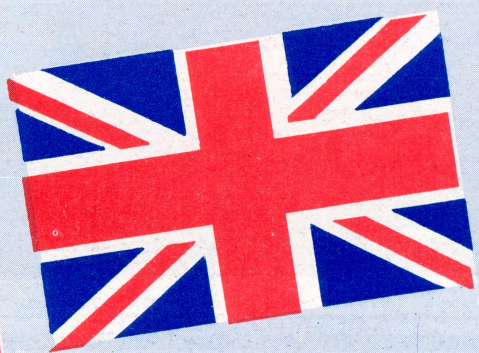

Whilst Labour can offer only a roof tax no better than the old rates, the National Front offers a fair, simple and straightforward way to pay for local services. We say - "No to the Tory Poll Tax! No to the Labour Roof Tax! Yes to one fair Income Tax!"

132 Jap firms in Britain

THE TROJAN horse of Japanese industry in Britain continues to grow apace. At the end of January there were 132 Japanese firms in Britain producing electronic and electrical equipment, chemicals and general machinery.

Subsidies

These Japanese firms compete against British firms. They are aided by local and Government subsidies enabling them to undercut British firms. When they have captured the home market, they then demand better subsidies, put up their prices and even up and leave to a more profitable part of Europe, leaving behind them dole queues, bankrupt British industries and the need for further foreign imports. What would those brave British soldiers who lost their lives on the 'Railway of Death' in Burma during the last war have made of all this. I expect they would agree with the National Front who say "All goods bought in Britain, must be made in Britain, in British factories by British workers".

Blacks on the Bench

THIS IS Lord Mackay the Lord Chancellor and he wants more Black judges. In fact he is... "very anxious to see more people from ethnic minorities on the bench" and has given them... "every encouragement". Does that mean positive discrimination. Promoting West Indians, Indians, Pakistanis and Africans to the judicial pool over the heads of better qualified British applicants? The National Front believes Britain's courts should be presided over by British judges.

Guess who gets the Special Initiative?

ETHNIC MINORITIES in Blackburn, Lancashire are being invited to a pre-recruitment initiative to secure them local government jobs. The initiative involves an open evening to find out more about the range of council jobs and careers and how to apply for them. This event will be followed by a one-day training session to deal with completing application forms, handling interviews and other procedures involved in the recruitment of staff. Any British applicant desiring a job in local government will have to face the interviews without the initiative. Is it any wonder the National Front says 'Put the British people FIRST!'.

EXPOSED: Plot to Smear the Front!

A TEAM OF 'under-cover agents' in the joint pay of a daily newspaper and an independent television station are alleged to have infiltrated the National Front according to information received by 'The FLAG' office.

The purpose of the infiltration is to organize and create newsworthy incidents that can be used to smear the National Front. These incidents will then be documented and produced in a TV/newspaper 'double-bill' to be broadcast/published in early September as part of a campaign to get the National Front banned from marching to the Cenotaph on Remembrance Day.

A caller to The FLAG, who claimed to be a former NF member from the late seventies, said he now worked for a TV company and had been offered the job of infiltrating the NF. He said that it had been made very plain to him that...

- "The job was to organize and accomplish specific tasks within the National Front and not to report on the National Front as such".
- Those specific tasks were:
- * Take a high profile within a local NF branch.
 - * Organize, promote and try to involve NF members in attacks on ethnic minorities, homosexuals and Labour Party members.
 - * Create incidents at football matches making it clear that there is NF involvement.
 - * Create incidents at on-the-street papersales with ordinary members of the public.
 - * Be seen to make German-type salutes in public and at NF meetings
 - * Act in an anti-social manner when in public to create division between the man in the street and the National Front.

The gentleman who called said that the infiltrators would not reveal themselves after the programme but would just disappear after spending up to 6 months with NF branches in Leeds, Birmingham, South London and the South-West. Their antics would be reported by another infiltrator who would present the programme

I PLEDGE...

As a member of the National Front I accept that I am an ambassador of the National Front and as such pledge to conduct myself in a manner that is a credit to the Party.

I also pledge to work to the best of my ability to promote the National Front and its three central principles of National Freedom, Social Justice and Racial Preservation.

SAFEGUARDING THE FRONT: Members of the National Front are left in no doubt as to the way they are expected to behave. When joining they have to sign the above pledge. Hence the antics of infiltrators is quickly spotted.

CRANKS, LOONIES & NEWSPAPER REPORTERS: They are the only people who would act in such an anti-social manner. They would stick out like a sore thumb in the National Front today where our members are fiercely patriotic and pro-British.

'exposing-all' during his 'six months with the National Front'.

The National Front is always alert to the antics of 'investigative journalists' trying to create their own stories to smear the National Front. In the past there has been many an exposé that has fallen flat because there has been nothing to expose. Now it seems that our enemies in the media are leaving nothing to chance in their efforts to stem the popular tide of support for the National Front.

These agents will stick out like sore thumbs in today's National Front. The cranks and loonies who went round doing German-type salutes were booted out of the Front years ago. Anyone now who brings the National Front into disrepute is out on his ear before he can say 'Sauerkraut'.

Isn't it a pity that there can't be a factual programme about the National Front giving a true picture of our party, its policies and its membership.

Newcastle hospital bed loss!

THE FIRST steps have been taken towards closing more than 150 beds at three of Newcastle's hospitals.

Fifty-eight are to go at the Royal Victoria Infirmary, 48 at the Freeman Hospital and 48 at Newcastle General Hospital.

A Health Chief's report says, "Cuts will mean beds in general medicine, general surgery, gynaecology, geriatrics, dermatology and urology would be under threat."

The loss of beds will mean increased waiting lists for patients.

The National Front says "Cut Foreign Aid - Not Social Services".

Tip of the Iceberg?

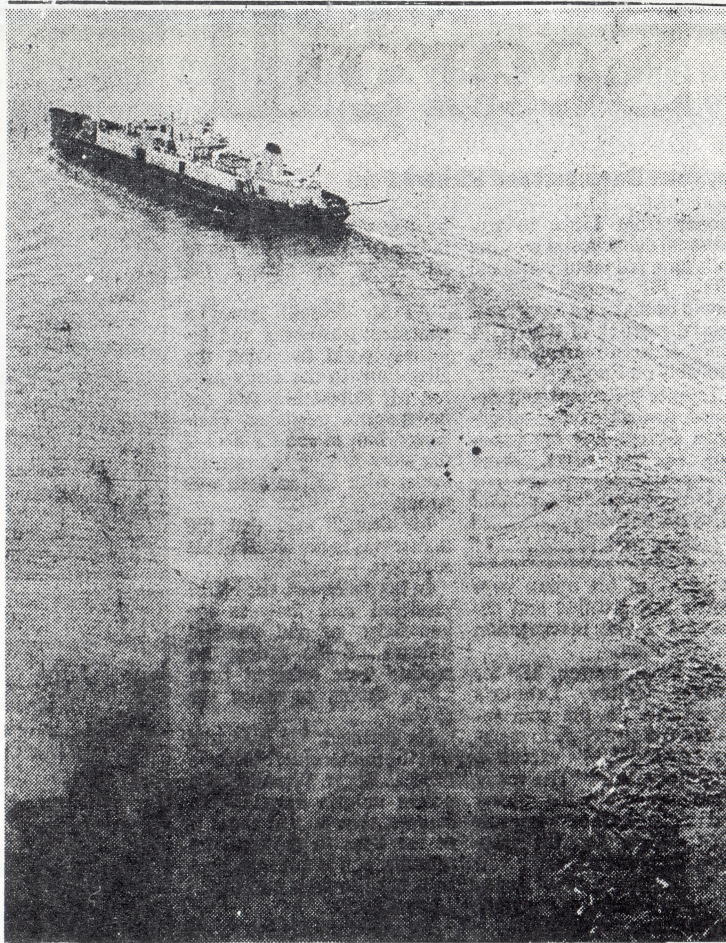

AN INDIAN running a textile firm in Nuneaton was fined £171.19 for wrongly labelling ladies briefs.

Polyester knickers were labelled as 100% cotton before being sold to Bewise in Church Street, Malvern.

Swain Singh told Malvern Magistrates Court that the knickers had been wrongly labelled at his firm's Solihull premises by a worker who could not read or speak English.

The moral of the story is "BE SURE - BUY BRITISH".

North Sea Sewer

BRITAIN'S DISGRACE: A British ship discharges sewage into the North Sea.

BRITAIN IS dumping more than two million tons of sewage sludge a year into the North Sea. Similar quantities of liquid chemical waste and industrial waste are also dumped by Britain into the North Sea.

Environment Minister, Chris Patten has made the right noises with regard to ending the dumping during this decade but in the eyes of the National Front this isn't good enough.

Pollution of the North Sea must stop now! Firms like ICI and Sterling Organics, responsible for the dumping of 80% of liquid chemical waste must find alternative methods of disposal.

There are always arguments supporting the importance of the products made that produce the waste. But nothing can be as important as to warrant the destruction of our planet.

It's a question of priorities. If Britain produces too much sewage than it can cope with then our population, (already 20 million too many for our island according to Population Concern), the producers of the sewage should be reduced.

If companies can't find safe ways of dealing with their waste products then they must stop producing those products. A planet safe and healthy for our children is not just a priority for our generation. It is the priority!

VICAR DENOUNCES ISLAM

FATHER GEOFFREY Good, the Vicar of Thornes, in Wakefield, Yorkshire, has warned his parishioners that "Islam is an alien culture thriving in our midst".

In the parish magazine The Mind Enslaved he said that Islam was a ghetto culture "creating youngsters with extremist beliefs". He also ridiculed Moslem fundamentalists who endorsed the death penalty for trivial offences.

'Stamp your own Passport' Fraud!

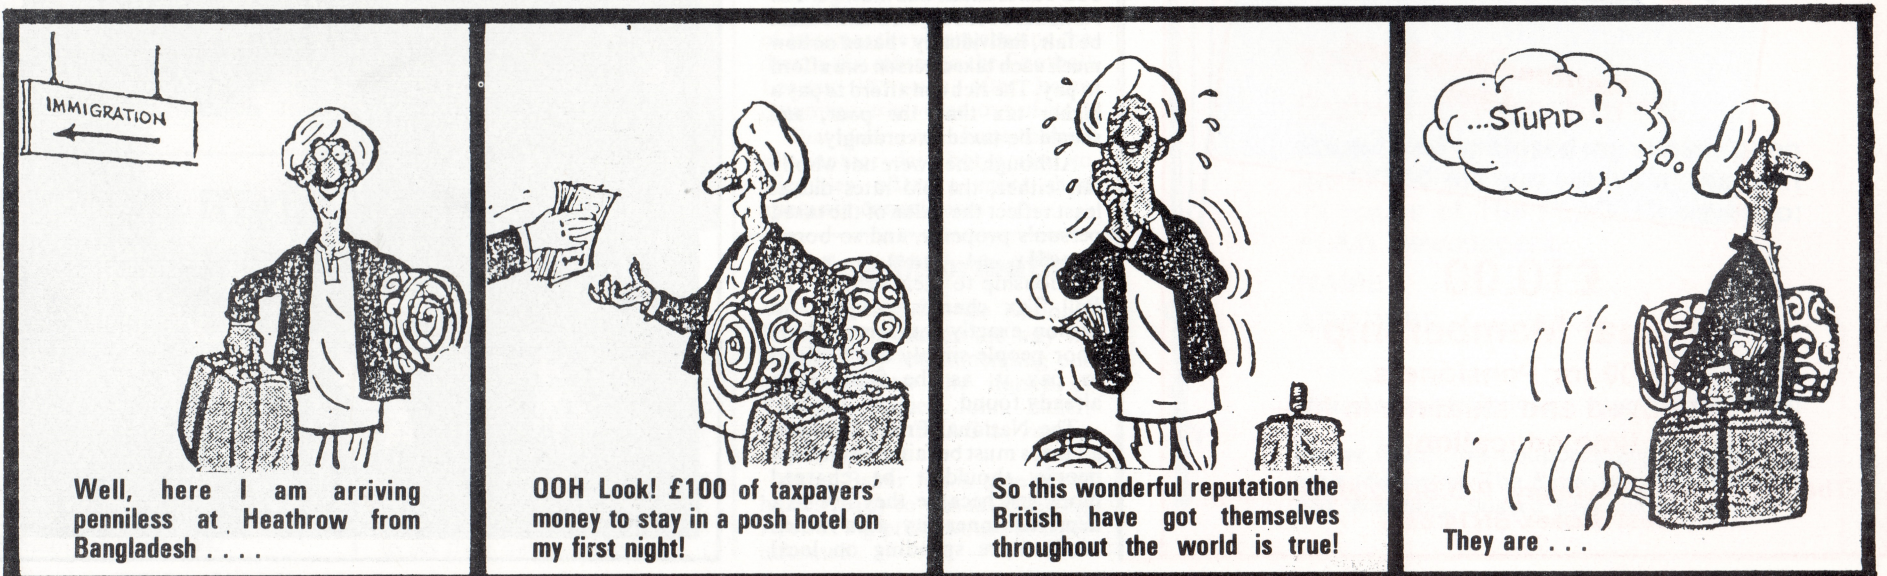

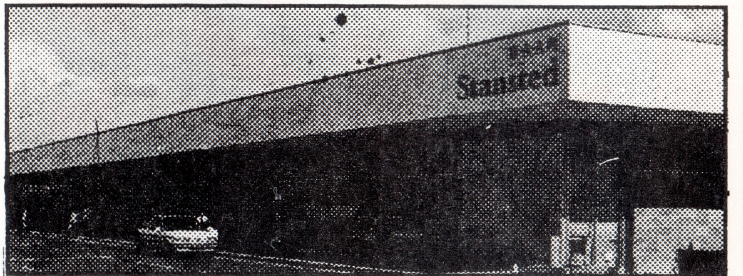

YET ANOTHER immigration fraud has been uncovered, this time at Stansted Airport in Essex.

Customs Officers on a routine drugs search have found immigration rubber stamps of the kind used by the Home Office hidden in the ceiling of a men's lavatory.

With the stamps in a passport an immigrant would be waved through all normal passport checks. The lavatory is 'airside', meaning that passengers arriving could easily slip in the lavatory after landing and use the stamps prior to going through passport control.

Customs Officers say they have no idea how many illegal immigrants have entered Britain in this way.

VOTE ANALYSIS

LARGELY AS a result of internal wrangling occasionally interspersed with sheer incompetence the National Front has faced declining votes stretching back over a fifteen year span.

There is some evidence that this has now been halted and that we are on our way back.

After the initial growth of the party in the early 1970's we hit a peak in about 1976. Revelations about certain leading members of the party who have since departed from our ranks triggered the decline which has continued with occasional respites until about two years ago.

By 1986/87 we had hit rock bottom, the party had survived major internal problems but was left with precious little public credibility. In fact our standing with the public was so low that we avoided elections even where we were capable of contesting them.

In Greenwich in 1987 we were able to muster just 103 votes in a parliamentary by-election. By 1988 we were starting to regain our confidence and some of our standing with the public. In December that year we contested the Epping by-election on the North East fringes of London. We had contested the seat before in 1979 and had received 1,110 votes making it one of the 10 best results out of the 303 contested.

The result was not spectacular but we did receive 286 votes - a definite improvement on Greenwich. In the middle of last year we contested both a European Parliamentary constituency - Birmingham East and a Parliamentary by-election in Vauxhall. The Vauxhall result was a disaster - we received just on 80 votes, but this was largely due to the intervention of a splinter group - now defunct - who used the name 'National Front'. For this reason the result must be largely ignored when trying to make comparisons.

The European seat we contested in Birmingham was an average or better area for the National Front. We received 1,471 votes from an area containing 8 Parliamentary constituencies, an average of 184 votes per seat on a low turnout.

We have just contested the Mid-Staffs by-election and achieved 311 votes, despite the intervention of an anti-immigration Conservative candidate. Although the boundaries have been redrawn, this constituency is made up largely of two different previous constituencies: Stafford & Stone which we had not previously fought, and Lichfield and Tamworth where we received 475 votes in 1979.

Thus although our vote has dropped since 1979, this drop is far less drastic than in Epping:-

	1979	88/90	%
Epping...	1,110	286	26%
Mid-Staffs	475	311	65%

The level of popular support is still very low and we have an awful long way to go but this does provide us with some evidence that we may, at last, have turned the corner and be on our way back.

LACK OF time and lack of manpower were the reasons that the National Front vote in Mid Staffordshire wasn't any better. For the first time in ten years money was no problem but we failed to capitalise on this welcome change of fortune simply because we lacked the time and manpower to canvass our support.

In Mid Staffordshire the National Front near enough knew its 311 supporters. They had been canvassed on the door or sold papers to in the street. Every vote was talked, explained and argued for by just three Party workers in the last two weeks of the campaign.

It's true that as many as 20 NF members were in the constituency at weekends and on polling day but the real battle for votes was meeting the public face to face on a day to day basis.

John Hill, an excellent NF candidate, knew at worst he would poll 270 votes, we just about had the names and addresses of those people. We were hoping to harness the NF support which we knew was there but could not locate, by loudspeaking and a poster campaign. In this we failed. The NF got no protest votes, no floating votes and no one who thought I'll give the NF a chance this time. The only vote we got was the cast iron National Front vote which we had found through papersales and the election address.

"I'VE JUST VOTED FOR YOU". Polling Day in Lichfield and an ex-serviceman tells NF candidate John Hill that he has just been to the polls to vote National Front!

So as we put our disappointments behind us and prepare for the next campaign we have once again gleaned valuable information from contesting elections. The more time you have to locate your support the more support you will locate I suppose it's common sense really!

* John Hill would like to thank ALL those who helped in the campaign. Special mentions must go to Mr and Mrs Glare of Brighton (Election Addresses), Robert Wild and Bob Jones of Birmingham (Posters), Peter Cox and Terry Blackham of London (Loudspeaking). Very special mentions to Matt Sloane and his helpers from Stoke who literally ran the NF campaign in Stoke and to Duane Marlow, the Walsall Organiser who didn't miss a day's campaigning.

Storm Over Bristol Advert

THE BEST of the local advertisements inserted by National Front branches was published in the Bristol Journal reaching 55,000 homes in the Southmead area of the city.

As well as a goodly batch of enquiries the appearance of the advertisement prompted the predictable screams of outrage from the multi-racial lobby.

Senior Social Work lecturer at Bristol University, Sonia Jackson, was "... shocked to see an advertisement for the National Front" while another writer who wasn't prepared to give their name was "... disgusted to read an advertisement for the National Front, a party which promotes the well-being of White people".

The response from these ethnic grovellers gave John Daniels, the Bristol NF Chairman an ideal opportunity to have his say. John's letter is re-printed below.

Party Political

As a legitimate political party, the National Front deserves the same rights as those afforded to others. Even Lord Denning has commented: "It is quite clear that the National Front is a democratic political party".

Our policies are unpopular in some quarters, but the same can be said for Maggie's Poll Tax or Neil Kinnock's views on immigration from Hong Kong.

If you don't agree with us then don't vote for us, it's as simple as that.

ONE OF the best local National Front leaflets for many a year has been produced by Grimsby National Front.

Called What have they done to Grimsby, the leaflet details the demise of the fishing industry and outlines a common sense policy for restoring and protecting the livelihood of those who depend on Grimsby fish docks for a living.

The leaflet concludes with a quote from Sir Walter Scott - "It's not fish ye're buying - It's mens' lives".

London North Award

LONDON NORTH National Front wins this month's award for the most imaginative venues for NF paper sales.

On March 8th they sold papers and gave out leaflets to members of the public appalled at seeing a demonstration by Lesbians in support of the IRA on Waterloo Bridge.

On March 21st they held a paper sale outside a Fabian Society meeting in Dartmouth Street, London SW1. The trendy Socialist intelligentsia were surprisingly interested in 'The FLAG' and a number of copies were sold.

On 28th March a paper sale was to be held outside a meeting of 'War on Want' in Russell Square London where the NF sellers were to have displayed a banner 'Charity Begins at Home'.

Unfortunately when the NF members from North London arrived at the hall they were informed that the meeting had been cancelled because 'War on Want' had gone bankrupt.

TREVOR BUTLER: Organising the NF in Glasgow.

NELSON MANDELA Square, formerly George's Square, in Glasgow, was the venue for a National Front papersale on March 3rd. NF Organiser, Trevor Butler, sold out of copies of The FLAG in less than an hour to interested Saturday Morning shoppers.

Found in Blackpool

"DID THEY Die in Vain" the National Front recruitment leaflet which warns British people of the growing birthrates of coloured immigrants living in Britain has upset councillors in Blackpool.

Copies of the leaflet were found in Blackpool library and the matter was discussed at a council meeting where Councillor Derek Lockwood warned that it was the start of a National Front recruitment drive in the area.

In Jail in the U.S.A.

TWENTY-FIVE percent of Black men in America aged between 20 and 29 are behind bars or on probation.

This compares with 10% for Hispanics and 6% for the White population of the same age group.

Police claimed the percentage of Blacks detained will rise rapidly over the next twelve months as they get to grips with the crack problem that is mainly based in Black ghettos.

Kosher by Mistake

SEVENTY PERCENT of meat originally ritually slaughtered for Jewish consumption in fact ends up on the Gentile market.

Rear halves of carcasses contain too many veins, lymphatics and nerves to be deemed Kosher.

Ritual slaughter is a barbaric method of slaughter. Many Britons would be affronted if they knew they were eating meat from an animal killed in such a way.

A National Front government would ban the practice of ritual slaughter.

Cruelty Increase

THE RSPCA has reported its highest annual figures for animal cruelty.

Its inspectors received well over one million calls in 1989 and investigated nearly 83,000 complaints of cruelty.

There was a 30% increase in cruelty to cats and a 164% increase in cruelty to farm animals.

The RSPCA brought 2,026 successful prosecutions for cruelty of which 1,131 concerned dogs.

Mr Gavin Grant, its campaigns director, described the statistics as "stark, depressing and horrifying".

Union jack Burned

ON MARCH 7th, Exeter City Council set their poll tax rate and, as in many other areas, there was a violent left wing demonstration outside the town hall.

Many of those causing the trouble were identified as Marxist members of the Labour Party. During the demo these Reds ripped down a Union Jack flag, from a local building and set light to it.

A local NF supporter tried to battle his way through to retrieve the flag, but without success.

What a Load of Nonsense!

AN AMERICAN has bought the Lordships of Cromer, Antingham and Roughton for £32,000.

What a load of nonsense. If there is no one to inherit the titles then they should be discontinued. It's ludicrous that an American can become Lord of the Manor in Britain.

Indian Birth-Rate

AN INDIAN is born every 1.2 seconds. That's 70,000 a day. By the end of the century there will be a billion Indians on the planet and by the year 2050 their population will surpass that of China's 1,680,000,000.

Black Crime in Brixton

White Society not to blame says Sociologist!

WEST INDIAN CULTURE: In Britain it's expensive trainers and track suits.

by Steve Brady

YET AGAIN, officialdom has revealed that street mugging is overwhelmingly a crime committed by Black Immigrants. This time the further reinforcement of this crystal clear fact comes from the Community and Police Consultative Group for the London Borough of Lambeth, and was compiled by a sociologist, Miss Elizabeth Burney of the Centre for Inner London Studies.

Published in early March, the report is based on a comprehensive study of street crimes in Brixton and the neighbouring South London districts of Clapham and Streatham between March and August 1987, and included a thorough series of interviews with police, rehabilitation groups, victims and probation officers.

The official report reveals that in this largely Black area during the six month period over 1800 muggings were committed, over ten a day and 12 times the national average. It was revealed that Britain's best known West Indian ghetto also has Britain's highest rate of street crime. Moreover, of 52 cases chosen at random for detailed study, 92% of the muggers were Black or of mixed race. 20% of the muggings involved knives, leading in 2.4% of cases to serious stabbings. 56% of the victims were women, although the report coyly avoids mentioning their race: previous official figures have shown that most mugging victims are White even in heavily Black areas, showing that mugging, though not recorded officially as such, is a racial attack by Blacks on Whites. 26% of muggings took place near Brixton Tube station.

The report further showed that young Blacks do not mug because they are oppressed by "White racist society" as liberal apologists say. Lack of education, financial hardship and poor housing were specifically ruled out as major factors in this type of crime by the report: many muggers come from stable home backgrounds, by West Indian standards.

The report concluded that Blacks mug for excitement and to pay for their "uniform" of wildly expensive training shoes or baseball boots, costing up to £90, designer track suits and bomber jackets. They also hunt in packs.

BRIXTON'S FRONTLINE: 92% of muggers in the borough were Black or of mixed race. The racial identity of their victims was not given.

As Mrs Linda White, Secretary of the Police/Community Consultative Group which produced the report, put it: "What we are seeing quite clearly is that there is a group of young Black people who depend for their status on having designer track suits, jackets and trainers. The only way they can show bravado and keep up with the ever-changing, ever-more expensive trends is to steal and commit robbery".

Of course, there is nothing particularly new in this report. Everybody, from the Home Secretary through the Police to the little old lady on the South London street knows that mugging is a crime carried out mainly by young Blacks and aimed at Whites, especially women, notably old women; a vicious crime of violence carried out mainly for "kicks".

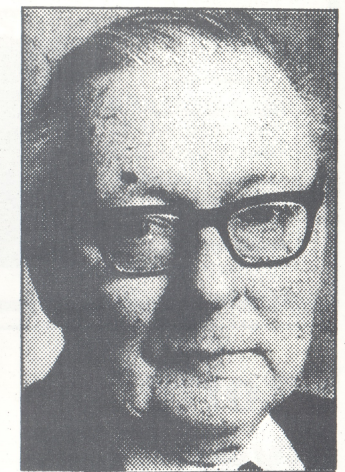

But so far the only response from officialdom to its own figures on Black crime has been to throw people in jail under the Race Act for publicising them. Surely one of these days yet another report, like this one, proving yet again what everybody knows about the nature of our Immigrant communities, will be the straw that breaks the camel's back of the British public, if not their rulers, and leads to a demand that we make the streets of our cities safe for our weakest and most vulnerable citizens and send the Blacks back!

Assiduous Pressure From The You-know-whos

THE HISTORIAN, Lord Blake, believes the House of Lords will throw out the legislation to allow the trial of alleged war criminals for actions not committed on British soil when it comes before the Upper Chamber for its second reading.

Lord Blake has no doubts that the Bill is the result of assiduous lobbying from outside, and although the Government has taken it over it has done so unenthusiastically and with the Cabinet divided.

Lord Hailsham has described the provisions to change the rules of evidence in the envisaged trials as "legalising the law of the lynch mob".

LORD BLAKE: Outside Pressure

MP REFUSES NF INVITE!

NF ORGANIZER David Sudworth

A LABOUR MP has refused an invitation to attend a National Front meeting in order to find out what the National Front is really about.

Roger Stott, MP for Wigan, had attacked the National Front when the local NF branch had announced a recruitment drive in the town, but he refused an invitation from Wigan National Front to attend one of their meetings in order to discover the true face of the National Front.

The MP's rebuttal led the NF Organizer David Sudworth an extensive interview covering many facets of the National Front. David Sudworth told the paper...

"Mr Stott is displaying a typically complacent attitude towards our organisation, one which is born out of a biased outlook in the media".

"Despite what many people may think", he added, "we are purely and simply a political organisation, just like the Labour Party, just like the Conservative Party. The only difference is our views and aims."

"The National Front is very different to what the media portrays. The truth of the matter is that ordinary men and women form our membership".

David Sudworth also outlined to the paper the way the National Front intends to recruit in the town with leaflet drops, meetings and other public events.

Ex-Servicemen's Association

EYES FRONT is the new National Front bulletin of the NF Ex-Servicemen's Association.

The Association has been recently reformed by Kelvin Sanderson, the ex-serviceman who addressed the National Front Remembrance Day Parade to the Cenotaph last year. Its main purpose is to keep the Party's ex-servicemen in touch with each other and to canvass their opinions on policies of the National Front that affect them.

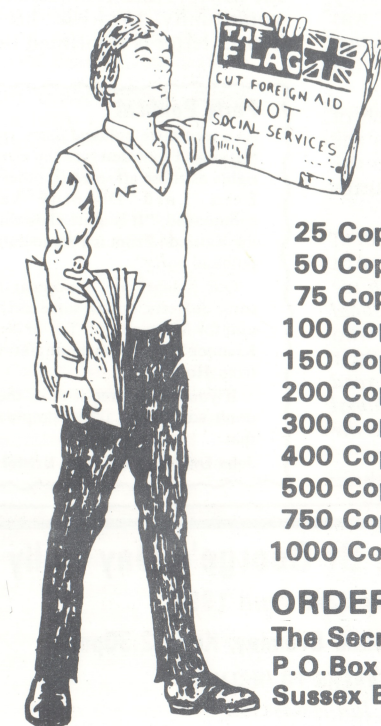

EYES FRONT asks for ex-servicemen to send in their letters, suggestions, anniversaries and any items for publication with its purpose to make the voice of the ex-serviceman heard within the NF.

MAJOR SPEAKS But Thatcher Pulls the Strings

BUDGET SPEECH: John Major tells parliament his news.

Tories Tinker While Britain Goes Bankrupt!

NF Chairman, IAN ANDERSON, looks at John Major's first budget and then outlines the policies the National Front would introduce to bring about an industrial and economic revival in Britain.

DO YOU REMEMBER when North Sea Oil started to flow, all the politicians said that they would use the revenues wisely to re-build British industry and make it the envy of the world.

Well the Tories have been in power for over ten years now during which time North Sea Oil revenues have been coming in. So what have they achieved for this country?

there is no tax relief for energy saving measures.

The Measures the National Front would implement

* Imposition of credit controls on bank lending coupled with a drop in interest rates to slow inflation and help home-owners and industry

* Import duties to boost industrial production and enable taxes to be dropped

* A ban on the export of capital to ensure that British capital is invested in Britain's future, not in Korea, Japan or Hong Kong

* Family allowances to be increased dramatically to help low income families

* VAT to be removed from all home improvement and energy saving measures, and from all food including take-away meals which was imposed as an act of spite by the government

* The gap between leaded and unleaded petrol would be substantially increased.

* We would abolish the Poll Tax and replace it with a local income tax geared to the ability to pay.

Britain needs an economic policy which is fair and just and which puts Britain's interest first - that is the basis of the economic policy of Britain's fastest growing political party - the National Front!

Families Torn Apart by Poll Tax Fiasco!

by Ian Anderson

MRS THATCHER said it was going to be fairer, more efficient to collect and would make councils accountable.

It has turned out to be unfair, a bureaucratic nightmare to collect and, far from being able to pinpoint extravagant councils, it is so muddled no one knows where the money is going.

From the word go the Tories designed the tax not to be fair but to benefit their supporters - the rich, at the expense of low income families.

A single person earning £75,000 a year living in Wandsworth in a £250,000 flat pays £171 per year. A family of four from Brent with an eighteen year old boy saving to buy a house and a nineteen year old girl planning to get married will have to find £1,993.

The Tories said it would be cheaper to collect than the old rates. The cost of collecting it this year will be about £300 million - twice as much as collecting the old rates.

The Association of Metropolitan Authorities said: "It is very much easier to chase-up homes than people, houses stay put whereas people get up and go".

The Government estimated evasion at 2%, council treasurers predict it will be closer to 5%.

Because the Tories have designed an appalling system and then compounded their errors by tinkering with it here and there, it is now a complete fiasco. Their desperate attempts to appease their own voters would be comical if it were not so tragic.

They have been switching money around the country defeating their own professed aims for the tax and causing total chaos. The result has been that the average bill paid by the householders will rise by 33% compared to the old rating system.

Their own supporters and even their own councillors have been resigning over the issue when they realise just how expensive the tax is. Conservative controlled Solihull, the lowest spending Metropolitan borough has set its poll tax at £389 - 36% higher than the government estimate.

The poll tax was a divisive and evil tax from the word go. The National Front has always said that the old rating system was unfair. We have consistently advocated its replacement by a local income tax which really is FAIR, EFFICIENT TO COLLECT AND DOES NOT ATTACK FAMILY LIFE!

We still have over 1½ million unemployed, we import more goods than we export, industrial production continues to fall, inflation has been rising, investment in our industries is stagnant and interest rates are causing despair and despondency.

On Tuesday 20th March Mr John Major, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, delivered his budget to the House of Commons: 2p on a pint of beer, 10p on cigarettes, a small incentive for regular savers, some benefits for charities - hardly a great change after 10 years of opportunities lost and hopes dashed.

The Conservatives claim that they are the party that knows how to run the economy and boost Britain's industries, in view of their record, this is laughable, and just imagine what it would be like if North Sea Oil hadn't come along.

In Europe's league table of industrial production Britain, once the leaders, now rank below Italy. This latest budget is pathetic - it fails to tackle any of the major problems facing our country and it even fails to be 'environment-friendly'. The extra 2p gap between leaded and unleaded petrol is derisory and IMPORT CONTROLS: The only way to boost industrial production.

Rabies Waits For Chunnel!

FOR THE first time ever a rabid fox has been found near Dieppe in France less than 10 miles from the Channel. The find has panicked the French Health Authorities who have organized an emergency anti-Rabies oral vaccination campaign.

The previous nearest that a rabid fox had been found to the Channel was at Rouen, 30 miles from the Channel. This latest find is the nearest Rabies has got to the Channel since the disease got out of control in Poland during the Second World War.

It is suicidal for Britain to be pushing ahead with the Channel Tunnel at a time when the veterinary services in Normandy say that recent diagnoses show a frightening spread in the disease among cows, deer, cats as well as foxes.

MORE THAN two million households in Britain have fallen behind in their debt repayments according to a survey by the Policy Studies Institute.

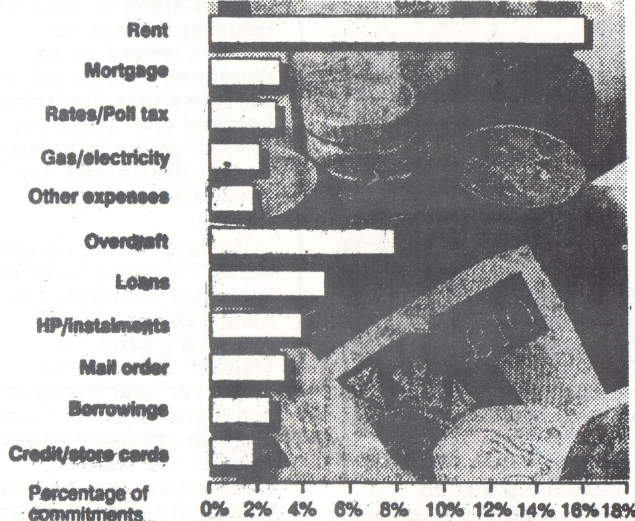

About 750,000 families are seriously in debt with people in their 30's and families with a weekly income below £150 those most in trouble.

Mortgage and rent arrears head the list of outstanding debts. In the West Midlands, repossessions by banks and building societies have risen by 20% in the past three months while in the West Country mortgage repossession has quadrupled in six months.

Rent arrears in Sheffield is £10 million and one in sixteen of the adult population in the town has received a County Court Summons for debt.

High and fluctuating interest rates are responsible for the debt burden on British families caused by the antics of the traders in the City. The National Front would close down the Stock Exchange and only allow loans to be issued from a nationalised banking system charging a set interest rate of not more than 5%.

Labour's Backbone behind Poll Tax Riot!

THE POLL TAX riots in London on March 31st were what the Tories had been praying for.

All the injustice of the new tax was forgotten as scenes of horrific violence filled our television screens. The thousands of ordinary people genuinely protesting against the anti-family tax paled into insignificance beside the car-burning, shop-smashing and police-bashing mob.

The Labour Party might try to distance itself from the violence, blaming it on miniscule anarchist groups with only half a dozen members to rub together, but anyone involved in street politics over the last ten years will know that it's Militant and the Socialist Worker Party that are behind the confrontations with the Police and they are backbone of the Labour Party in many inner city areas.

Militant and the SWP preach rigid socialism. They win recruits and direct them to the Labour Party because there is no other political home for them to go to. Once in the Labour Party they make themselves invaluable, taking on the burden of leafletting, canvassing and other mundane jobs. While the local committee maybe Kinnock supporters the real local party is Militant and the SWP.

Up and down the country the mild-mannered Kinnockites who believe they are in charge of the Labour Party are sitting on a time bomb. Purges of the last four years against Militant have taught the Militants to keep their heads down and parrot 'Good Old Neil' phrases.

They're waiting you see till Labour gets to power before making their move. And when it comes the Militants will be as ruthless with the moderates as they were in 1977 when Ken Livingstone ousted the luckless MacIntosh just hours after he had won a famous victory for Labour in the GLC elections.

Cutting the Prison Population - At a Stroke!

A NATIONAL FRONT Government would solve the problems of Britain's prisons at a stroke.

* The prison population would be reduced by 26% immediately with the repatriation of coloured immigrant detainees.

* Murderers, terrorists and hard-drug pushers would no longer take up space and cost the taxpayer dear. They would be hanged for their crimes.

* Judges would deal with crimes not involving violence by returning the offender to society to repay their debt by helping the community.

There was a reason for the riot at Strangeways. If you treat men like animals they will behave like animals - and that's exactly what happened.

The Men Behind the 'Law of the Lynch Mob'

LORD HAILSHAM has described the attempts to prosecute German soldiers living in Britain for crimes committed during World War II as the 'Law of the Lynch Mob'.

A vociferous lobby is pushing the Bill through Parliament led by Greville Janner for Labour and Ivan Lawrence for the Tories. All those baying for blood have one thing in common.

I know what it is - do you?

GUIDE TO LIVE MUSIC IN LONDON

Music Review with Bob Nash

WHEN YOU look at the trends currently promoted by the big business end of the music industry, it is clear that the young teenage record-buying public in particular are being sold very cheap measures by the majority of the current so-called pop artists and musicians.

In a recent edition of Top Of The Pops none of the would-be 'stars' featured actually played musical instruments. Instead the featured personalities relied in the most part on backing tapes and pre-programmed synthesizers as their musical backing. This of course begs the question - does the accomplished musician or group of self-taught artists still have a role to play in the popular music scene?

Contrary to the bland image presented by the music media, the live music scene is alive and kicking, with an increasing number of bands and artists enthusiastically competing to get their music heard and promoted.

In London despite the large number of disco pubs playing the same old jungle rhythms there is an established circuit of venues and pubs which still cater almost exclusively to promoting live music in various forms.

In any given week if you look hard enough through the gig section of the various music papers available, you will find adverts for live music ranging from Heavy Rock, Pop, Country and Western and Folk music.

Venues such as the Walthamstow Royal Standard opposite Blackhorse Road tube, whilst having a steady Friday Night Heavy Rock Night, also features various Pop and Country and Western acts, and even such entertainers as Richard Digance have made regular appearances there.

Other notable venues include the Marquee, now at 105 Charing Cross Road which plays host to a variety of different bands and music throughout the week. Other live night spots such as the town and country club in Kentish Town and the Astoria provide as well as good live music that rare extra of having a good view of the stage even from the bar area.

Of the larger live venues the old reliable Hammersmith Odeon still caters for a large selection of different and varied music acts throughout the year.

So if you really want to hear good music, turn off the TV, ignore the radio; and instead visit your local live music pub or one of the number of live London venues. Go out and listen to the real musicians and artists, the ones who by their persistence and love of their profession keep the art of live music alive and well.

ADMINISTRATION UPDATE!

with Tina Wingfield

THE NATIONAL Front is now the proud owner, for the first time in the Party's history, of a FAX machine. This acquisition will help our Press Office streamline its contacts with the media and make certain that the specific journalists that deal with the National Front will be getting Press Releases on their desks in a matter of minutes of it being issued.

April will also see the Administration Dept purchase a computer. This will again update our Dickensian membership system. At the moment sending out a Membership Bulletin is a week-long nightmare. Next month it will just take the pressing of a button.

The Building Fund at the moment stands at £3,296.70 from which the FAX and the Computer have been bought.

The Mid-Staffordshire by-election fund raised an excellent £1,014.75.

March was yet another good month with memberships coming in at a rate not seen since the late 1970s. Demand for leaflets and stickers shows the Party in a very healthy state with re-prints ordered of the self-adhesive stickers and the Hong Kong leaflet.

Many thanks as always to our loyal and consistent Friends of the Front.

YOUR FUTURE IN THATCHER'S BRITAIN?

NO JOBS. NO HOPE. NO FUTURE.

That is the fate of millions of ordinary Britons under the Tories. Is there an alternative? Can the Labour Party give us a future?

LABOUR - THE PARTY OF THE PAST Labour has ceased to care about ordinary British people. Saddled with an outdated Socialist ideology it cares more about Blacks and so-called 'Gays' than British workers. Neil Kinnock's only interest is to live it up in £750 a night hotels, and chase after the votes of wealthy 'yuppies'. THERE IS ONLY ONE REAL ALTERNATIVE TO THE TORIES - THAT ALTERNATIVE IS BRITISH NATIONALISM!

The Masters Now

WILL SHAKESPEARE'S portrait of a malevolent Shylock demanding his pound of flesh as an act of vengeance has long been denounced as a travesty of Jewish attitudes, not only by the Jews themselves but by their multitude of toadies and lickspittles who hasten to gratify their smallest whim.

Well, Shakespeare didn't know the half of it. The professional Hebrews who claim to represent Jewish opinion in Britain want not just flesh by the pound but by the ton, no matter how old or withered.

For after years of campaigning by Jewish zealots, led by the incredibly oily Greville Janner M.P., Parliament has given official sanction for the persecution of old men - former citizens of the Baltic states seized by the USSR in 1940 - for alleged war crimes allegedly committed against Jews fifty years ago.

The fact that the alleged crimes were allegedly committed by citizens of another country against citizens of another country in countries over which Britain has not, nor ever has had, jurisdiction is a mere bagatelle. The fact that every principle that has been the bedrock of English law through the centuries must be jettisoned to make such persecution possible is of no consequence whatever. Whatever Ikey wants, Ikey gets!

And why not? After all, the Board of Deputies of British Jews forced Parliament to pass the Race Relations Act which effectively abolished the Briton's freedom of speech. When that evil Act failed in its intention of imprisoning their supposed enemies they demanded, and got, the effective abolition of corpus delicti, the principle whereby no one can be convicted of a crime unless it can be proved that a crime has been committed.

Many Jews have been exceedingly reluctant to endorse these naked attacks upon the rights of Britons, fearing resentment and a backlash against Jews.

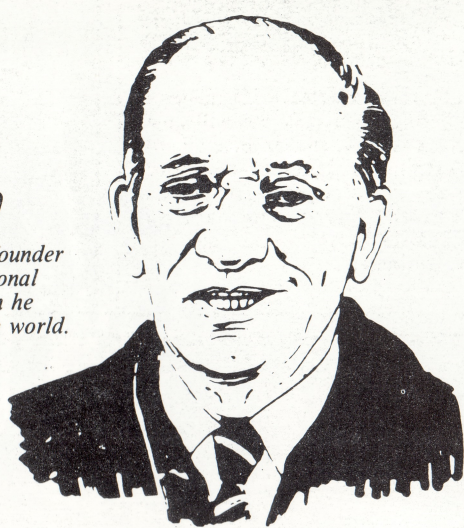

They needn't have worried.

These outrages against the traditions of English justice have elicited a nil response from the supine and apathetic British public. Even assuming that they know or care about what is being done to their country, the only act that now moves them to even the mildest display of petulance is one that hurts them in the pocket and raises the spectre of their not being able to afford their customary fortnight on the Costa del Beerbelly.

The fact that the Pound of Flesh Bill was passed by the Commons by a truly massive majority of 273 to 60 is not an indication of the thirsting for retrospective justice by the slimy toerags who claim to be our representatives but proof positive of what has been coyly described as "extreme pressure by outside interests" - in short, Jewish terrorism. Apart from the brave sixty who dared to defy the ferocious "lobbying", when this rape against British rights was being committed, more than half of the Members of Parliament didn't bother to turn up or were too scared to raise their heads above the parapet.

The Ted Budden Column

Ted Budden was a founder member of the National Front. In his column he gives his view of the world. His comments and observations do not necessarily reflect NF policy.

I never thought that the day would come when I would thank God for the House of Lords but that day has come.

For the Lords is not susceptible to the kind of political blackmail that makes knees in the Commons rattle like castanets. The majority in the Lords is firmly against the Pound of Flesh Bill and will probably amend it, even if they cannot stop it.

Lord Hailsham, the former Lord Chancellor, has described it as "offending against fundamental legal principles" whilst Lord Shawcross condemned it as "violating the basic principles of British justice".

Well, he should know. He it was who, as Sir Hartley Shawcross, was the chief prosecutor at the Nuremberg kangaroo courts. Of course he has changed his tune more than somewhat since then. He was Attorney General in the post-war Labour Government and an enthusiastic Socialist until he realised the strength of the closet commies entrenched in Labour's ranks. He achieved some notoriety at that time by exulting "We are the masters now!"

Now he knows better. One does not need to be a legal eagle to know that they are the masters now!

Shoot 'Em

I SOMEHOW think that I am not alone in resolutely refusing to have my withers wrung or my ganglions shot to pieces by the news that the Iranian criminal and 'Observer' "investigative journalist" Farzad Bazoft had had his neck stretched by the Iraqis.

Whether he was a spy or not is, I suggest, somewhat irrelevant. Certainly such an honourable man as Tiny Rowland's paper boy Donald Trelford, Editor of the 'Observer' and discarded boy friend of full of Eastern promise call girl Pamela Bordes, has stated categorically that he was just an innocent reporter carried away by enthusiasm. Carried quite a long way too considering that he disguised himself as an Indian doctor and travelled in an ambulance to "investigate" an Iraqi prohibited area.

Whatever his intentions he has paid with his life. The British nation, however, will be paying for some time to come. For our wonderful Government, at present stumbling helplessly from one shambles to the next, allowed itself to be panicked by the indignation of honourable Mr Trelford and the simulated outrage of the rest of the media ratbags into denouncing Iraqi "barbarism" before it even knew the facts of the case; thereby doing irreparable harm to legitimate British interests in the area.

Just what they were up to, in any case, in quashing a deportation order against Bazoft and issuing him with British travel documents is, perhaps, something that does not bear investigation.

I am, quite frankly, more than a little tired of the "investigative" antics of the British media. It would not be so bad if their investigations gave us an accurate view of the world.

So I have no sympathy whatever with our brave reporters who injure this country's interests and reputation by travelling abroad to make mischief in other people's countries, especially in troubled S.Africa whose problems stem mainly from the media's lies, half-truths, staged incidents and incitement to violence.

Far from upholding their right to interfere in the internal affairs of friendly countries, I would have not the least objection if their offended hosts were to jail them, deport them, or pepper their backsides with birdshot.

Strange Bird

THE CELEBRATION of the centenary of the opening of the Forth Bridge was more than a little tarnished by the decision of the non-executive Chairman of ScotRail to bow to the feeble threats of Anti-Apartheid perverts and rename the steam locomotive 'Union of S.Africa' and call it 'Osprey'.

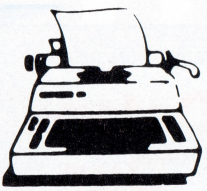

The Union of S. Africa was built over 50 years ago and was named at a time when S.Africa, a staunch friend of Britain, was about to fight on our side in the war, and had a Prime Minister, General Smuts, who was unwavering in his loyalty and devotion to the imperial ethic. All of which, of course, counts for nothing in the face of "protests" from the nation's low-life.

I was a little puzzled by the decision to call the offending locomotive "Osprey". The Osprey is unknown in the South of England and I naturally assumed that it must be that famous bird that, beset by irrational panic, flies around in ever-decreasing circles until it disappears up its own yellow streak.

It transpires, however, that the Osprey is, in fact, a fish eagle that dives from a great height down to the sea to snatch its prey.

Rather a pity, I think, that the locomotive 'Osprey' didn't live up to its name and dive off the Forth bridge into the sea, taking with it Mr John Cameron, non-executive Chairman of ScotRail, and all the other appeasers who so lightly offend our friends and dishonour the good name of Britain.

Unsung Heroes

I WOULD like to remind everyone of the unsung heroes of the ambulance strike, the men who manned the military ambulances which were deployed in 13 different areas dealing on average with 1,105 emergency calls each day. The total calls had passed 51,000 by January 15th of this year.

They were first deployed on November 8 in the London area, they were also deployed in Hertfordshire, Bedfordshire, Lincolnshire, South Yorkshire, West Midlands, Dorset, Hereford and Worcester, Staffordshire, Surrey, Essex, Oxford and Buckinghamshire.

During their stint using very basic equipment compared to normal ambulances, they delivered babies, saved heart attack victims from certain death, dealt with road accidents, and every kind of broken bone.

As usual the British Army is called upon to fill the gap when civilian services break down, very seldom to you hear anyone praise their efforts. 'WELL DONE LADS' we appreciate all the effort and hard work you put into a difficult job.

WOMEN AT THE FORE: Karen Taylor & Karen Stewart of Leeds NF.

Softer Image

I THINK the biggest set-back for the NF is the image the public for one reason or another have of us.

I think it significant that the French NF have had a good reaction to their women candidates, one actually winning an election.

Generally the male image is one of aggression, more inclined to fight and go to war. So for the NF I believe female candidates portray a better image and tone down the hard impression.

Using women to spearhead the movement more, may help to change peoples' attitude. They could give a softer, more human face to nationalism - also of course, 50% of the voters are female anyway.

All of us trust females more than males, especially strangers - which is basically what political candidates are.

Psychology plays a massive part with everyone, advertisers wouldn't pay millions of pounds for T.V. adverts if they didn't persuade viewers to go out and purchase their products. These ads are very carefully thought out, they are aimed at the potential customer.

The NF must use psychology as well as anyone else.

What the other Press dare not say

I READ your paper and it has brought a lot home to me. Things the TV never shows and the press dare not say.

It got me thinking. I remember as a young lad in the '50's and early '60's the government saying that these immigrants were only coming to do the jobs that the British would not do.

In the late '60's and early '70's, because there were that many coming over here, they kept saying, Oh, but they are only Commonwealth immigrants.

If we the British as much mention colour or creed it is racist as though it is an unethical thing for the white man to say or do.

I have noticed on TV that there is an advert saying there will be a fall in population in the '90's and we will need all the labour we can get. I bet the population won't fall as low as it did due to the First World War and we still survived.

And what about the 3 million that are on the dole, and what ever happened to all that robotic machinery that was going to replace a lot of people on the factory floor by the year 2000?

I think this advert is the start of another ploy to make the British feel guilty and that we should be thankful to the immigrants.

Peter Knowles,
Bloxwich.

What About the Armagh Four?

SINCE THE release of the Guildford Four, the increased media coverage, regarding the Maguire Family and the Birmingham Six cases, has been highlighted by Republican, Socialist and Marxist groups in Ireland and Britain. The calls of British injustice and cover-up, have been linked to these cases, yet never once have any of these groups called for the release of the Armagh Four.

The Armagh Four are four ex-members of the U.D.R., convicted of the murder of Catholic Adrian Carroll in Armagh in 1983. Some facts have now emerged to discredit evidence against these men.

They are slowly gaining support for their case including help from journalist Robert Kee.

Certain groups have ignored this case because of the religion of those detained - Protestant - and their one time association with the U.D.R.

This is a serious miscarriage of justice and I ask The FLAG to highlight their case in your newspaper.

Yours in the cause of Ulster.

Free the Airwaves

AS A regular reader I must disagree with your recent sports page attack on Satellite Television.

Every Nationalist I know round here has either bought or is buying Sky and find it a refreshing alternative to the left-dominated BBC and ITV, which is depressing in its mundanity.

Sky is not expensive, as you claimed, and the news channel is riveting. Surely the NF should be advocating more TV channels rather than joining Leftie Sky-bashers?

Certainly Sky is not perfect, many of the Sky One programmes are pretty cretinous, but then so was pirate radio when that first came out and look what that led to.

It was not Radio Four that interviewed NF Chairman Ian Anderson but London's Independent LBC and GLR!

The future of TV is multi-channel. Let us not bury our heads in the sand with the socialist ostriches...

Obviously a future National Front government would boot out Murdoch, but I would argue that we should maintain Sky and BSB. We should campaign to free the airwaves from race traitors and open them up to the people.

Atheist Kinnock in Church for the Cameras

AH, LOOK at Neil. Isn't that lovely. Singing heartily during the televised Songs of Praise from St Margaret's Church, Westminster. It's enough to reassure you that Labour has really changed to see its leader worshipping God in a Church of England service.

Of course it's not lovely at all. Kinnock is an atheist. He doesn't believe in God and is only attending the service and singing Christian hymns because the programme is being televised and he might be able to pick up a few votes.

Glenda Jackson, the latest

Labour candidate for Hampstead and Highgate says she will give up acting if she is elected to Westminster. Kinnock will have to set her straight - In today's Labour Party the acting STARTS when you get to Westminster!

SHORT-LIVED: ANC flag is raised

NOW YOU see it now you don't!. That's the story of the ANC flag that was hoisted from the Nelson Mandela Peace Gardens in Burnley Town Centre.

The emblem of the Black African terrorist gang was due to be flown for a week to celebrate the release of Nelson Mandela but it was only flying for a matter of hours before it was cut down to be replaced by National Front stickers.

An Anti-Apartheid spokeswoman Katherine Rowley said she felt sick at what had happened and blamed local papers for labelling the ANC as terrorists and "expressing the same views as the National Front".

IRA STAIN ON SWINDON TOWN

ON MARCH 10th promotion-seeking Swindon Town, played at Plymouth Argyle in a Second Division match. Amongst Swindon's large contingent of travelling fans was a group of Labour Party supporters, who put up both Communist and pro-IRA flags, behind the goal where they were standing.

This was seen as an insult to the many servicemen who watch Plymouth and ordinary supporters were outraged.

Plymouth NF treasurer, Ken Williams, who was at the match, complained strongly to the police about the provocative flags and eventually the police made them take the IRA flag down (though not the Communist one).

Other NF members who are at grounds where Swindon play should follow Plymouth's example and complain to the police if these Communist/IRA flags are displayed.

Patriotic Swindon fans can help, by making it clear that these Labour Party Reds are not welcome with their flags at either home or away Swindon Town matches.

If Swindon win promotion to HAMMER & SICKLE: Swindon Town supporters fly the Russian flag. The IRA banners had already been removed by police.

the First Division this season, then they will be playing at Chelsea next season. Whether they will fly their IRA flag there, knowing of the large Loyalist support at Stamford Bridge is another matter!

THANKS FOR YOUR HELP: An England cricketer congratulates Devon Malcolm on his success. Surely they know the whole game is a farce?

The Unkind Taunts that tell the Truth!

THEY WEREN'T racist taunts, but they were probably just as unkind.

During the Test Matches in the West Indies two players representing England have been subjected to a barrage of abuse being called "traitors, black honkies" and the "white man's poodle".

The players singled out by the West Indian crowds were Devon Malcolm and Gladstone Small who are of course West Indians.

England would never have won the First Test without the efforts of these two West Indians and its understandable that the home crowds should become upset over what they plainly see as cheating.

There can be little satisfaction for the rest of the England players either knowing their side has been so dependent on the efforts of Malcolm and Small.

Win, lose or draw a National Front government would make sure that no charges of cheating could be laid at the doors of British sports teams because they had been using players from other countries.

Prean is Right

JOHN PREAN, the Chairman of the English Table Tennis Association, has written to all 36 affiliated counties telling them that "the inclusion of a Chinese subject in an English team will make the sport look ridiculous".

John Prean was prompted to the action after pressure was exerted to include Chen Xinhua in an England team from May when the player will have lived in Britain for two years.

City Sharks Prey on Soccer Clubs

THERE WAS a time when a football club was an integral part of most communities. Now they are being treated as businesses to be brought and sold for profit - and shut down if they don't make much money.

Sheffield United, having a very successful season near the top of the Second Division, is under threat from a Middle East consortium whose backers are unknown but which is fronted by a Mr Sam Hashimi. Their plans apparently include selling Sheffield United T-shirts in the Middle East, transmitting live television pictures to Riyadh and turning the club into an international arena.

Manchester United - the centre of the Michael Knighton fiasco - is now rumoured to be up for grabs with the tentacles of the notorious Robert Maxwell looming over the horizon. He already controls Derby County and his family hold the reins of Oxford United.

MAXWELL: After United?

Also at the bottom of the first division are Charlton who have been forced to play at Crystal Palace in recent seasons. The fans are so irate at Greenwich Council's refusal to allow them to return to their "Valléy" ground that they are standing candidates in the local elections. We wish them luck in their fight to get their own ground back.

HIGGINS: Ignorant

HIGGINS IS AN UTTER DISGRACE

ALEX HIGGINS is a disgrace to the sport of snooker. His remarks to Denis Taylor during a recent match about Taylor's wife and recently deceased mother were in poor taste and together with a threat to have Taylor shot in Belfast were the mouthings of a very ignorant man.

For years people have sniggered at the antics of Alex Higgins because he cocked-a-snook at the snooker establishment, but criticising the snooker authorities is different to abusing the family of a fellow professional.

Higgins isn't amusing any more; his snooker isn't entertaining any more and he most certainly isn't the Peoples' Champion any more.

England's Chance

THIS YEAR'S Five Nation's Championship has been one of the most exciting ever with Scotland beating England in a tense and gripping match thus lifting the Grand Slam, the Triple Crown and the Calcutta Cup.

In the summer we have the World Cup with the Northern and Southern hemispheres clashing. Clearly the four leading contenders for the championship will be Scotland, England, New Zealand and Australia.

Scotland's aggression and ability to hustle unbalanced one of England's best ever sides. However England are still maturing and may still be some way from reaching their peak. New Zealand will, as usual, be fielding a fast and mobile squad and it is questionable as to whether Scotland will be able to unbalance such a side.

The Flag's tip for the final: England v New Zealand.

Barrow on the Wembley Trail!

ON SATURDAY 14th April Barrow Football Club will take the pitch at Holker Street for the second leg of the FA Trophy semi-finals against Colne Dynamos.

Barrow, the team The FLAG has been following this season, will be just 90 minutes from Wembley and the Trophy final against Stafford Rangers or Leek Town.

When we started to follow the Cumbrian Club back in August of last year they were chasing the dream of a return to the Football League 18 years after being ignominiously voted out of it.

That dream will have to wait till another day, but a visit to Wembley offers a more than adequate consolation.

Racing Information

WE WILL finish the National Hunt racing season the way we started it by recommending our readers follow the horses of Tiverton trainer John Baker, writes The FLAG's racing correspondent.

John Baker has a number of horses ready to win races during April at big prices we are reliably informed.
